We further find that this is a dangerous crossing and should be protected by gates, watchman or electric bell."

I gave this remedy a thorough trial, getting it at Grant Holden's Drug Store. It lived up to representations, making me feel like a different person. After I used Doan's Kidney Pills my kidneys were in better condition than they had been for years."

HARD CASE

Valuable Horse Saved by Proper Action.

Especially now when horses are getting more valuable, people in Michigan will find it to their profit to know about a 98-year-old liniment about which Mr. H. C. Feros of Tivoli, N. Y., writes as follows: "I healed several bad cuts and scraped hocks on a valuable horse by using Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh twice a day."

Work of County Agriculturist.

The entire time last week except Saturday was occupied with the Farmers' Extension school at the China Cleaners' Hall. This is the first school of the kind held in St. Clair county, and it is especially gratifying that it was a decided success from the start to the finish.

The work in home economics was in charge of Paulina Raven of the Michigan Agricultural College. At each of these schools, a member of the senior class at the college assists in the work, and at the China school Miss Raven's sister, Miss Aysha Raven, helped with the demonstrations. The lectures included a study of protein foods such as milk, eggs, cheese, legumes, nuts and meats; home decorations, textiles, canning by the cold pack process, the school lunch box, table setting, etc. These sessions were attended regularly by twenty-five ladies of the locality and many favorable comments were made by them regarding their part of the school and all were anxious to continue it next year.

The agricultural sessions were regularly attended by thirty-five to forty-five men. The lectures on farm crops were given by E. P. Robinson, Saginaw County Agriculturalist. The subjects discussed were tillage, the drainage, legumes as soil builders, farm management, survey work, the growing of pedigree seeds, farm manures, and fertilizers. Mr. Robinson's work was of a high order and his lectures combined the practical and scientific phases of agriculture in a way that made them of the greatest value to the man on the farm. In addition to the school work he visited several of the men at their farms and assisted them in planning tile drainage systems, crop rotations, etc. Chiefly through his efforts, too, a number of men at the school decided to buy a carload of tile and under drain a small acreage just to demonstrate the value of tile drainage. The feeding, breeding and care of livestock were discussed by the St. Clair county agent.

The noon hour at which a pot luck dinner was served also added much to the pleasure and profit of the occasion. Taking everything into consideration, these one week schools have a social and educational value of the highest order, and it is hoped that other localities in the county will make arrangements for holding one next winter. In order to secure a week's course, it is necessary for thirty people to sign an application agreeing to attend the meetings and to meet the local expenses, which are light in communities where the hall can be secured at a nominal price.

The arrangements for the farmers' institutes, which will be held next week, have been progressing very satisfactorily, and the interest of the localities are showing is very encouraging. Institutes will be held as follows:—Albion, Monday, February 14; Memphis, Tuesday, February 15; Lamb, Wednesday, February 16; Columbus Gleaner Hall, Thursday, February 17; Spring Hill Hall, Friday, February 18; Algonac, Saturday, February 19.

C. L. Brody, County Agent.

IT WAS A TOUGH STEAK.

But the Restaurant Man Easily Fixed It When the Kick Came.

It happened in a downtown restaurant. A well-dressed—as he always must be to make a good story—young man ordered a steak. The waitress, rather pretty—which qualification she must possess in writing a story of this kind—filled the order, and the young man started in to devour the feast which had been set before him.

The young man had no sooner started in on the steak than he discovered that he had a kick coming, and as the restaurant proprietor passed he stopped him by saying: "I can't eat this steak; entirely too tough. I wish you would see that I get better meats when I come in here."

"Too bad! That steak looks all right. But let me get you another." And the aforesaid proprietor took the steak, the silverware which had been served with it and departed. He soon returned with a steak which looked exactly like the first one. The young man picked up his knife and started at his second order. "Fine!" he said as his knife cut it apart without the least effort. The customer was pleased beyond words, and that he enjoyed the steak was evident, for he left only the plate.

As the reporter passed out he met the proprietor again, and this is what was said: "That steak was all right, but the girl made a mistake in not giving him a sharper knife. All I did was to put the same steak on another plate and bring him a sharp knife. You have no idea what a difference a sharp knife makes with a steak from a beef of questionable age."—Columbus Dispatch.
